Earth Day Stimulates Global Awareness

by R. Layden

On Thursday, April 30, Bishop Ford held an Environmental Awareness Day for the third time under the direction of Doctor Tony DeFina, Chairperson of Life Sciences. There were many guest speakers who attended during the day, mostly in science classes. Some of the guest speakers who came were from popular organizations, such as New York City Environmental Protection, New York City Department of Sanitation, Coast Guard, Con Edison, Stop Nuclear Arms Production (S.N.A.P.), Brooklyn Union Gas, and a few others.

Other scheduled activities included a poster contest with the environment as a theme. The winner of the contest won $50.00. The school day ended a little earlier because of modified classes. The classes were modified so that a 35-minute program, "Recycle Thi," put out by Dow Chemical, could be viewed. Many banners made up by after-school clubs were hung in the cafeteria and around the building. During the week of Environmental Awareness Day the Physical Education Department organized a work program in which students will help clean up litter in Prospect Park. The environmental science classes visited a landfill on Staten Island, the Fresh Kills Landfill, which happens to be the largest in the world. There was also a trip to the Red Hook Sewage Treatment Plant in the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

The science department is trying to propose a new organization or society for the environment here at Ford, which will meet once a month.

The environment is a very alarming issue. People should try to fight to protect it. Many people, such as the science department, have already shown great concern, and that is why they run Environmental Awareness Day with their motto, "To change the Earth, all you have to do is change your mind."

to abstract to figurative. Also shown were audio and video tapes. A new type of art introduced to the show was composition writing.

Some of the art displayed was from seventh and eighth grade classes in the diocese. The best work was then selected to be displayed here at Ford.

For the second time (the first having been in 1983), there was a judge at the art show who awarded prizes for

MUSIC REVIEW

by Vincent Lijoi

This record review is on the album from a brand new metal band by the name of Ugly Kid Joe. The name of the album is As Ugly As They Wanna Be. While the album is on the controversial side, with songs like "Madman," about the story of a murderer on the loose in Disneyland, to the party-down raid on Mom and Dad's liquor cabinet, entitled "Whiplash Liquor," these new kids show no small amount of musical talent. Their blend of white funk and metal is hip and fun, and the musical arrangements are put together very well.

Eleventh Annual Art Show Held

by R. Layden

On Friday, April 10, Bishop Ford presented its eleventh annual art show in the main lobby and west wing of the school. The curators of the show were Mr. Turturro and Ms. Gagliardi.

The art displayed was taken from the fine arts, photography, and studio classes. It was also taken from the art club, and photography club, both of which are after-school activities. There was a range of art displayed, from realistic

Athletic Awards

by Karen Nikoloudakis

This year's Athletic Awards Dinner is being held on Wednesday, May 27, 1992. Tickets will go on sale soon for $5.00 and there is no limit. All of Ford's teams will be honored. Parents and friends are invited to come and show their support for our school's athletes.

The highlight of the evening will be the presentation of the Student Athlete Award, given annually to a Ford senior excelling in both athletics and academics. Good luck to all and congratulations from Highpoint.

the best works. The judge for this year was Dr. Paul J. Patane from Fordham University. Dr. Patane is a doctor in the field of art.

The art that was displayed will remain so that all those who did not attend the show can still view and appreciate it.

The rising sun dries the tears of night letting the land come to life, to die once more.
The sun begins the cycle of life.
Each day life and death struggle over all living things.

The earth revolves with care.
Its inhabitants do not fulfill their part.
The balance of nature is being disturbed
by its protectors.
The humans have no regard for what has been intrusted to them.
Their neglect is finally hurting them.
The waste of progression is building up.
The few that realize it try to show the rest. The people listen but do not act.

The air fills with tension,
Two races fight
Not knowing the reason.
People chose to fight before
The truth is spoken.
There are the antagonist, the majority.
There are peace makers, but not many.
Do not be forced to fight against your will;
Before one engages in battle with another human,
Know and make sure it is worth it.

Why must the innocent
Die for a cause that is
Not theirs?
If the fighting must continue
Let it be for the good of the whole.
I am against violence.
All violence, war, hatred brings
More violence, war, hatred, and ends in death.
Will it ever stop?
A war will never end it.
The violence must end.

Annual Chance Book Drive Raises In Excess Of $40,000

by Brandon Broady

The Chance Book Drive that began March 17th turned out to be a huge success for Bishop Ford. What seemed to be a dark cloud moving over the drive turned out to be a gift in disguise. In about three days extending the original ending date (March 31) of the drive, Bishop Ford collected almost $7,000. Mr. Campanaro, director of this drive, says "Money is still coming in." The school has collected over $40,703.

Kelly Poore is the top seller of this drive with over 400 sales. She received $250. The other winners of the Chance Book Drive are Elias Williams, who won $200, and Nicols Crooks, who won $800 in the Jumping Jack Dally drawings. On Friday, April 10th, 1992, the night of the Art Show, the Comer family was announced the winner of $2,000.

The 2nd prize winner was Eon Alexander.

Many people wonder what the whole Chance Book Drive is for. Some people say we already pay too much tuition anyway, so what is the need of the Chance Book Drive? We must realize that this drive is the only major drive involving everyone at Bishop Ford. The drive is basically meant for Bishop Ford students!

Mrs. Rollo says the drive is to better the daily after-school activities for Bishop Ford students. The money from the Chance Book Drive goes toward all sorts of things. The main thing is that the money is used so students won't have to pay more money for using the school vans, having popcorn and soda at the Movie Club, keeping the computers running, etc. . . . When you look at it, the drive is also a chance to add three more days onto our Easter vacation.

The sun,
Had come and gone.
You were on a mountainside, one with the stone.
With your life passing by with the wind
Don't stop the flow, go with it.
Don't ponder the past,
Live life, enjoy it,
Try to make it longer.
Your generation is holding back progression.
Try to go eternally ahead.
Like the ever-flowing wind that goes over obstacles progression will never become stagnant.

The shadow of reality clouds
The image of dreams.
The image of dreams distorts one's ideas.
The ideas of the present are the ideas
Of the past.
And to change one's perception of reality,
Would disturb their creativity.

One person's reality might be Another's nightmare.
The flow of reality has been stopped
By those that do not perceive their own.
Persecution of the few led to the Destruction of the mass.

The way to end fear is to See the truth behind it.
If a person doesn't act against Oppression it will worsen, but if acted upon incorrectly, it will spread, worsen,
and lives will be lost.

Girls Make Good Showing

by Nancy McManus

The girls' varsity basketball team made a good showing with a season finish of five wins and three losses in their division. Led by Coach Casazone and Captains Kelly Oteo and Colleen Killen, the Lady Falcons made it to the semi-finals.

The team played Bishop Loughlin at Bishop Kearney in the quarter-finals. Although they had lost to Loughlin twice during the season, they played a great game to beat Loughlin and advance to the semi-finals. In the semi-finals they played Stella Maris at Ford. Although they didn't win, the team was on top until the final buzzer.

Everyone on the team contributed to a successful season. The leading scorers were Colleen Killen, Jennifer Palansky and Kelly Flahive.

I asked team member Jennifer Palansky about her most memorable game, and she said, "Every game was memorable for our team. We had a great time together and we are all looking forward to next season."

Falcons' Fast Start Still Promises Much

by Karen Nikoloudakis

This year Ford's boys' varsity baseball team are hoping to improve on last year's record and go to the "A" playoffs. With the talent on the team, this is a definite possibility. Leading captains: Vinnie Gagliardi (Sr.) and Robert Campbell (Jr.); their record is already three wins, one loss, and one tie (as of April 3, 1992). The last was an 8-4 win over arch-rival Xavier H.S. Alright guys!

I had a chance to speak to coach Fernandez and he mentioned that the team went to Doyle School for Basketball in Orlando, Fla., where they were trained by professional players, as well as college coaches. I think that it is just a testament to the boys' dedication and perseverance, which shows in their early record. We expect a great deal from them this year.

Don't underestimate their powers. Instead, go out and catch a game. You won't be sorry.

Guest Column By Ford Alumnus

by Raymond Finch, M.M.

Political violence is tearing Peru apart. The Church's "option for the poor" amounts to a declaration of war in the eyes of Sendero Luminoso (Shining Path), a terrorist group that views works with the oppressed as an obstacle to its plan for total revolution. Unarmed civilians, women, children, community leaders and church workers are targeted. Sendero bears responsibility for thousands of cold-blooded assassinations of innocent people, whose only crime was helping others to improve their lives.

On the other side, government forces also view the poor as subversives or potential revolutionaries to be arrested, tortured, driven from their homes or killed. The security forces need to counteract terrorism, but pacification must be measured and always concerned for the overall welfare of the Peruvian people. Unfortunately, Peru's democratically elected governments, its military and the judiciary have been grossly negligent when it comes to distinguishing between the poor and Sendero. We have some hope that the government's human rights will improve now that President Alberto Fujimori has allowed the International Red Cross to monitor treatment of internees at military and police detention centers.

The violence, however, has left tens of thousands of widows, orphans and emotionally scarred individuals. But times of crisis can also become periods of grace and growth for people willing to search for meaning to their suffering. Maryknoll missionaries feel privileged to accompany the Peruvian people during this most difficult time. As we discover our own weakness, helplessness and limits, we witness God breaking through with resurrection and life in the faith of the Peruvian people. I ask all Mayknoll readers to pray for Peruvians and for us who stand by them during this trial by fire.

Presidential Elections:

Who Will Run Our Country?

by Karen Nikoloudakis

A problem facing America today: Who will run this country in January, 1993? Many feel that it is time for a change. Others think that it has been too long since a Democrat has been in office. I think that they are wrong. If you feel it's bad now, wait until we have a liberal in the oval office.

The only real candidate for the Republication side is current Pres. George Bush. There isn't a doubt in my mind that he will get the votes that he needs to receive his party's re-election nomination. The Democratic ticket, on the other hand, looks like a circus. First and foremost there is Arkansas Governor Bill Clinton. Gov. Clinton has captured the media's attention because of his affair with Jennifer Flowers (alleged, I'm sure). This brings in the extremely crucial point of character. If this man is capable of cheating on his wife, who's to say he will not cheat on the American public. I also feel that Clinton telling us of his past experience with illegal drugs, namely marijuana, was just a ploy to divert attention from his affair to something that will make him look a little more human. The American voting public has now to realize that a new and younger generation of candidates is arising, and that when they were younger, they did not know the danger of drugs. Fine. I can accept that. But cheating on someone you made a promise to, and then backing down on it, is unacceptable. Maybe I'm being naive because I was raised as a Catholic, and that's just the way I feel.

There is former Mass. Senator Paul Tsongas, who dropped out of the election because of difficulties. Yet, in the primaries, he is still getting a percentage of the vote. Next is former California Governor Jerry Brown, who is Clinton's only real threat. There is something about him that I do not feel is right. I would not be a bit surprised if he was the one who leaked the information about Clinton's affair to the media.

Most of the candidates are just a front. No real respectable Democrat would waste his time running against Bush. I call this their Dukakis factor. They look more like Ken dolls than candidates.

I feel that Bush is a shoe in for reelection, but it will be close. Americans want to show their disapproval of his policies and will do so with their ballots. One thing is sure, I wish I could vote.

Most of Ford's student body do not have the privilege. Who is wrong? Because of our age we are excluded, but that does not say we do not know what is going on.

I urge all seniors of voting age to take advantage of it and cast your vote. Only you can make the difference. Let your small cry be heard above the rest, so that we can be taken seriously. Listen to the candidates and their positions: abortion, economic policies at home, etc. Don't be ignorant and fail to vote. The choice is yours.

PROM '92

by Kabrina Murrell

The Senior Prom is a date that will be held dear for always. It's about romance, friendship, about being a young adult and partying all night. It's couples linked arm in arm blushing and friends together laughing and dancing.

Prom night is a very special night. It's a night of classical magic under the stars. It's a time to relax after all the preparation that it took . . . But most of all, it's a time to remember and treasure forever.

Three reminders for a memorable prom night:

1. Have fun!
2. Avoid alcohol.
3. Remember: safety above all. Avoid dangerous situations.

Academy Awards

by Vincent Lijoi

On Monday, March 30, 1992, the 64th Annual Academy Awards were televised. The stars came out for Hollywood's biggest night as the awards were televised live from Hollywood. Everyone was hoping they would win one of the many Oscars awarded that evening. Some of the awards won were: Best Picture—The Silence of The Lambs, Best Actor—Anthony Hopkins, Best Actress—Jodie Foster, Best Supporting Actress—Jessica Tandy, Best Supporting Actor—Ben Kingsley, and many other winners.

At the end of the ceremonies, all of the celebrities went to a nearby restaurant and partied the rest of the night away.

Student Elections

by Nancy McManus

It's election time again. Students who wish to run for the student council must declare candidacy by May 8th. A speech must be made by anyone running for President or Vice President. The speech is to be about 2 to 3 minutes long and is to be given to Mr. Grella by May 13th. The speech should not only include the dress code, but other issues, such as: how we can clean up the cafeteria or what Ford can do to help save the environment. Students who wish to vote in the elections must register in the Student Activities Office on May 13th. The school will hold an assembly on May 27th during which the candidates will be presented to the students.

When voting, you, the students, should take the whole election process seriously; it shouldn't be a popularity contest. Usually about one-third of the students vote. This year let's have a bigger student turnout.

The elections will be held on June 1st and 2nd. So register so your vote can count.
